

We are incredibly proud of our tamariki

Our tamariki continue to show manaakitanga and aumangea. They continue to show care for each other, through random acts of kindness and bravery

When we went into Alert Level 4, full lockdown, the Government realised that not all students in New Zealand had internet access in their homes and therefore digital, distance learning could not occur.

This highlighted huge disparity and lack of equity for students throughout Aotearoa.

Hence, at this time the Government wants all school aged students to have access to the internet. The Ministry of Education requires us to inform them of each whānau internet access and what devices you have in your homes.

A form went home last week to enable us to collect this data. Can you please fill it in and return it to school by Wednesday 24th June?

Thank you to our whānau for helping us to ensure the safety and education of all our tamariki.

Kia manawanui, kia manaaki, kia haumaru!
